NOTES FOR THE TEACHER:

Trapdoor is a pair speaking activity.

Student A chooses one thing from each of the boxes, but doesn't tell Student B.

Student B begins to read the text aloud, choosing one thing from each box as they go. As soon as Student B chooses an option that Student A hasn't chosen, Student A says "Trapdoor!" and Student B has to go back to the beginning and start again.

They keep repeating this procedure until Student B can read the whole text without error.

Then they swap over.

This Trapdoor activity practises nouns, gender, plurals and adjectival position and agreement.
