An illustration of three Roman soldiers. On the left, two soldiers in grey tunics and helmets with red plumes are walking away, carrying a large brown shield with a red snake design and a sword. On the right, a single soldier in a grey tunic and helmet with a black plume stands facing them, holding a sword and a large white shield with a red border. A large speech bubble is positioned in the center, containing the word 'valēte' and its meaning 'goodbye'.
