Activities

- Read the poem Bilingüe by Alma Flor Ada and discuss the benefits of knowing more than one language.
- Ask children how many languages they can name. Play a well-known song (see suggestions below) in lots of languages. How many of the languages mentioned did the children have on their list? Can they add any more to their list? (NB there are between 6000 and 7000 languages in the world currently).
- Show the verb hablar and its present tense conjugation (either singular people or all if you prefer).
- Introduce the names for some languages in Spanish, and practise making sentences to say who speaks what.
- Children find out the countries where these languages are spoken.
- Show how to use ser to say where someone is from — Soy de España. Use some well-known people for children to make sentences about.
- Make sure children understand what nationality is. Show how to use ser to describe nationality. Adjectives will need to be made feminine where appropriate. E.g. soy francesa
- Tell children that people don’t necessarily live in the country they are from. Introduce vivir and practise saying where they or others live e.g. Vive en Italia.
- Children record in writing where they are from, their nationality, the language(s) they speak, and where they live. They could also use other verb forms to talk about other people. They interview each other using the 2nd person questions.
- Children add more information about themselves to create a profile that can be sent to their secondary school.

Stories, poems, songs and rhymes:
- Multilingual version of Disney song e.g. Let it go, Into the unknown, Hakuna Matata (YouTube)
